A historical and cultural hub, Clermont-Ferrand houses architectural beauties and glorious cathedrals with a clear Gothic accent. Nestled at the foot of a chain of volcanoes, this ancient city is the capital of "Massif Central", the rural and mountainous Auvergne region. The city is the gateway to the Natural Volcano Park, which shifts from mountains to valleys, providing breathtaking views over unspoiled landscapes.

THE CITY

Ekaterina Pokrovsky/Shutterstock.com

Clermont-Ferrand ranks among the oldest cities of France. Renowned for its thermal springs, it acquired great importance under the Roman emperors and became an Episcopal city ruled by its bishop in the Middle Ages. The counts of Auvergne decided to found the city of Montferrand just next to Clermont to counteract the power of the clergy. The two cities were eventually forced to join in 1630 by a royal edict.

Nowadays, the old city centres are still separated. The city has kept this unique historical identity embarking onto a huge transformation program that is aimed to shape its new image as a European metropolis.

DO & SEE

redcarpet/Shutterstock.com

The city's major sights and historical beauties are connected by several walking paths that run through the two ancient town centres of Clermont and Montferrand. The whole area is home to architectural treasures, museums, castles and some of France's richest Roman heritage.

The region where the city lies is a wonderful site for outdoor activities and adventures, providing travellers with some incomparable walking-trails that twist and turn around the imposing Puy De Dôme volcano.

Cathedral of Our Lady of the Assumption

It took over 500 years, from the 13th century to the 19th century, to build this Cathedral with volcanic stones. Inside you can find unique stained-glass windows and wall paintings, and if you walk up the Bayette tower you will get the best panoramic view of the area.

Place de la Victoire

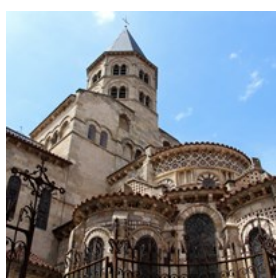

The second largest square of Clermont-Ferrand, just after the one of Jaude, Place de la Victoire is located in the heart of the historic centre of the city. Besides the Cathedral of Our Lady of the Assumption, it is surrounded by notable buildings, including the former home of the famous philosopher Blaise Pascal. In the centre stands the statue of Urban II, the pope at the origin of the First Crusade. Today, it is a dynamic gathering place thanks to its several bars and restaurants.

RESTAURANTS

Maksim Toome/Shutterstock.com

The region's abundant resources supply the finest ingredients, enriching the local cuisine with tons of flavours. The vast pastureland provides beef and lamb, as well as some of the best cheeses of the region. A regional ham, Jambon d'Auvergne, and various pork sausages are also available fresh from local farms, whereas rivers and lakes contribute to a diverse variety of seafood. Fine dining restaurants and laid-back bistros line up neatly down Clermont-Ferrand's downtown streets, making its centre a vibrant and lively hub to mix and mingle while sampling sophisticated Auvergnat flavours, a regional cuisine that caters to nearly all tastes.

L'oustagou

Located on the dynamic Place de la Victoire, this rustic-style restaurant offers authentic Auvergnat specialities, like truffade and aligot, two rich dishes made of potatoes and cheese from the region. TOURIST INFORMATION

Best Time to Visit

When going to Clermont-Ferrand, the best time to visit is during the summer, between June and September. The hottest months are July and August, with temperatures reaching up to over 30°C. But because of its geographical location in the centre of France and in an old volcanic crater, there is often little wind and the air can therefore quickly become stifling. The lakes around the city, such as Lac Pavin and Lac Chambon, are a great area to get fresh air. If you prefer more moderate temperatures, April to June are ideal, even if the weather conditions may be changeable. In winter, temperatures can be very low, can even drop below 0°C, but the snowfall is perfect for a ski session at one of the resorts in nearby towns like Super Besse and MontDore.

A nominee for the European Capital of Culture title in 2028, Clermont-Ferrand hosts many cultural events throughout the year. In February, the International Short Film Festival is held, which presents and rewards the works of filmmakers from around the world. In June, the Europavox music festival takes place with a programme made up of French and international artists. If you are a rugby fan, try to attend a match of the ASM team at Marcel Michelin Stadium for a unique experience.

Passport / Visa

France can be visited visa-free for up to 90 days by citizens of most European countries, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Malaysia, Israel, UAE and most countries in America. If you are unsure whether or not you need to apply for a visa, we recommend contacting the embassy or consulate in your country. International (non-Schengen) travelers need a passport that is valid for at least 3 months after the end of their intended trip in order to enter the Schengen zone. Citizens of Schengen countries can travel without a passport, but must have a valid ID with them during their stay.

Clermont-Ferrand Auvergne Airport

Clermont-Ferrand Auvergne Airport (CFE) is located 6 kilometres east of Clermont-Ferrand. It has an ideal location at the intersection between the motorways A71/A75 and A72/A89. From the airport you can easily reach the city by car in about 10 minutes.

You can also reach the city centre with the bus of the T2C network, line number 20. The bus stop is located only 3 minutes from the terminal building and the journey takes approximately 30-40 minutes.

More information on: www.t2c.fr

A train station is also located a few steps away from the terminal building and, with line 6 towards Saint-Etienne, it will take you to the city-centre in 10 minutes.

More information on: www.ter-sncf.com

Numerous taxi and car rental companies are also located at arrivals.
