THE CITY

Quai des Antilles, Les Anneaux, D. Buren et P. Bouchain © M. Argyroglo.

France's sixth-largest city, lies on the Loire estuary in the west of France, some 50 km from the coast. A former commercial and maritime centre of Brittany, the city boasts a strong historical and cultural heritage.

Nantes was the capital of the independent Duchy of Brittany back in the Middle Ages and came to be a key trading port in the 18th century, thanks to its strategic position at the Loire, Erdre and Sèvre rivers. Today, the city remains a prosperous and popular part of Western France. Its impressive Castle of the dukes of Brittany, the cobbled streets and the charming half-timbered houses in the medieval Bouffay quarter still remind visitors of Nantes' glamorous past, but the city has more to offer than just history. It boasts a lively art scene, a strong culinary background as well as a thriving nightlife. Live performances, exhibitions, concerts and tourist attractions interact with an original and coherent offer.

The figureheads of these numerous suggestions are: the Castle of the Dukes of Brittany and the Machines de l'île.

Nantes truly creative and attractive

Over the last thirty years Nantes has become one of the most dynamic and inventive cities in France. An impressive array of cultural events are rolled out over the year, some of which stretch out across the globe: The 'musical madness' of the "Folle Journée" classical musical festival, the giants created by the street theatre company "Royal de Luxe", Estuaire (permanent open-air collection), or the "Machines de l'île" mechanical animals, and don't miss the summer event Le Voyage à Nantes !

Green Capital

In 2013 Nantes became the first French town to be awarded the title of European Green Capital. This European award is the recognition of many years of political will that encompasses urban development and mobility (tramway, busway, etc.), fighting against global warming and preserving the natural heritage around the Loire estuary.

Cycle-Friendly

Located at the crossroads of two international stars of bike travel beloved by the public - "La Vélodyssée" (EuroVelo 1) and "La Loire à Vélo" (EuroVelo 6) – and with its 586 km (364 mi.) of bike paths and more than 2,900 parking spots and 7,000 bike racks, Nantes and its surrounding region love cycling and have never stopped promoting cycling. Whether it's for everyday travel or for just getting around town.

DO & SEE

La ligne verte du Voyage à Nantes © M. Argyroglo

The green line painted on the ground will take you to the heart of downtown and make sure you won't miss out on any of Le Voyage à Nantes itinerary of the city's best cultural stops, major monuments and must-visit sites.

Each year, this trail is revived and filled with contemporary installations, street furniture where you can sit down with friends, and even more surprising shop signs throughout the city.

Machines de l'Île

The Machines de l'Île is an artistic, touristic and cultural site in Nantes since 2007. Three major artworks, the Great Elephant (2007), the Merry Go Round of the Marine Worlds (2012), and the next project of the Heron Tree symbolise doors to the world of dreams and magical journeys. A mixture between the invented worlds of Jules Verne and the mechanical universe of Leonardo da Vinci.

Musée d'arts

Renovated and extended in June 2017, the Fine Arts Museum has been renamed the Musée d'arts. Steered by the Stanton-Williams Agency (Royal National Theatre, Tower of London, Belgrade Theatre, etc...), it houses a total of 17,000 m<sup>2</sup>, several exhibition halls and an auditorium. A key change is a 30% increase in exhibition space for one of the only 'generalist' museums in France. It is the only one outside of Paris able to present such an extensive and broad panorama of art stretching from the thirteenth to the twenty-first century. It has 10,000 works of art (paintings, sculptures, drawings, prints and contemporary installations), and several hundred masterpieces painted by De la Tour, Ingres, Courbet, Chagall, Kandinsky, Picasso...

Memorial to the abolition of slavery

Nantes was the capital of the slave trade in France: it organised 43% of the French slave trade shipments in the XVIII century. The City wants to assume its past and give shape to the memory via a powerful political gesture. The Memorial to the Abolition of Slavery in Nantes is the biggest in Europe. Located on the Quai de la Fosse, a symbolic place in the city that has seen many slave ships to Africa, the Memorial has been open to the public since March 2012. Following an international competition, the city of Nantes has entrusted the design of the Memorial to Krzysztof Wodiczko, a Polish artist and Julian Bonder, an Argentinian architect.

Ile de Nantes

Formerly occupied by the shipyards (closed in 1987) and by industries, this area is in complete rehabilitation and finds some harmony between the conservation of industrial heritage and the development of a new modern space. The Isle of Nantes is a perpetually changing area with contemporary architecture. On both sides of this territory perched on the Loire river are standing resolutely original and innovative buildings built by the greatest international architects: Jean Nouvel, Alexandre Chemetoff, Christian de Portzamparc, Marcel Smets...

DINING

Little Atlantic Brewery © C. Bornet by Kristo

The area boasts some of France's finest produce, recipes and wines. Wherever you go, seafood, straight out of the Atlantic, is on the menu. Want a simple grilled fish? Eat it with a beurre blanc sauce, created right here in town and surroundings. Need a pinch of sea salt? The very best comes from Guérande. This is also France's kitchen garden, producing flavourful, tender vegetables. Partner it all with a glass of Muscadet, the local white wine that goes so well with oysters or fish, mussels or crab. Award-winning winemakers and chefs guarantee memorable meals.

Roza*

The location (across from the Natural History Museum's entrance and tree-lined square) could not be more ideal for this up-and-coming restaurant run by the intrepid young chef Jean-François Pantaléon. With his extensive experience in some of the greatest kitchens (La Mare aux Oiseaux, La Duchesse Anne, La Grande Cascade, Le Meurice, Apicius) and his own culinary venture (Coretta, Paris 17th arrondissement), he will delight you with a sophisticated, intuitive and delicate cuisine, served in a stylish setting (bearing the signature of Brune de la Guerrande), that will surely impress. Well-paced service. 1 star Michelin.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

Daniel Buren et Patrick Bouchain, Les Anneaux / LVAN

Nantes has a thriving and young nightlife, thanks largely to its growing student population. Whether you are looking for an arty bar to discuss philosophy with like-minded people, or if you just fancy bogeying all night long - Nantes has something for everyone.

Quartier Bouffay

West of the Cathedral lies the historic medieval quarter of Bouffay, which has retained much of its old charm. A stroll alongside the cobblestone streets and half-timbered houses - some dating back to the 15th century - feels like a jump in time back to the Middle Ages. The place to have a drink with friends!

Le bar du Lieu Unique

Housed in the former LU biscuit factory since the 1st January 2000, the "lieu unique" is a friendly, cultural melting pot, ripe for artistic exploration. It is a place of coming together and as well as its own dedicated creative spaces there are a number of retail activities including: bar, restaurant, bookshop, steam room, nursery. Orphan to her twin tower, lost in 1974, the LU tower was restored to its exact original when the factory was reconverted into a national arts venue. As a symbol of Nantes' industrial heritage, the tower is once again recognised locally as a figurehead, this time for the lieu unique.

SHOPPING

Opéra Graslin © F. Toms

If you like shopping, you will love Nantes ! When people go window-shopping, they talk about "crébillonner" - which comes from Rue Crébillon - the city's most famous shopping street and its area. Rue Crébillon houses the most important designer stores as well as a range of interesting local labels. The street leads to the famous Passage Pommeraye, a stunning 19th-century arcade with chic boutiques: a must-see for Nantes visitors. Don't miss the Marché de Talensac on Place de Talensac, which is the town's biggest market - open every day except Monday.

Bargain-hunters should go to the shops on Rue Jean Jaurès and around Place Viarme, where the city's flea market kicks off every Saturday morning.

Passage Pommeraye

Built in 1843 and still unchanged in the 21st century. Built on a steep incline, the three floors are flanked by numerous shops and a monumental decorative staircase. It's a heaven for shoppers needing a fix and has inspired many artists, the film-maker Demy and the designer Tardi. A new extension has been built in 2015, this forms part of a new arcade opening out onto the rue Santeuil.
