With golden sand, cool water, and a gentle sea breeze, the second largest of the Canary Islands attracts huge numbers of sun-worshippers and water sports enthusiasts. The island itself has much more to offer, from barren desert scenery and fascinating volcanoes to colourful and characterful towns and pleasant harbour promenades.

THE ISLAND

gevision/Shutterstock.com

Shaped like a leg dressed in plus-fours, the island's 340-km gilt-edged coast surrounds a relatively flat interior of gentle hills and sweeping plains. The unique desert landscape and long-dead volcanoes are a sight to behold, and earned the whole island the title of UNESCO Biosphere Reserve in 2009.

Goat herders and fishermen once ruled the island, living a simple life of relative solitude. Nowadays, tourism is the driving force, centred around the lively resorts of Corralejo in the north, Jandía in the south, and more recently, Caleta de Fuste on the east coast.

DO & SEE

Pawel Kazmierczak/Shutterstock.com

As well as the blue skies and pleasant temperatures, Fuerteventura has rolling waves and a rocking nightlife. Away from the shoreline, desolate roads lined with squat, round windmills link tiny villages of sugar cube cottages. Here, the population ekes out an existence producing world renowned cheese and ruby red tomatoes.

Isla de Lobos

Located 2 km from Fuerteventura, this island is a nature reserve. Isla de Lobos means Wolves Island, named for the many sea wolves considered "the original conquerors" of the island. Nowadays, Isla de Lobos is a very popular tourist attraction, especially for nature lovers.

Corralejo Natural Park

If you want to enjoy the stunning desert of Fuerteventura, Corralejo Natural Park is the best place to go. With its long coast (2.5 by 10.5 kilometres), this island has two different landscapes to offer to its excited visitors: in the north you can admire the biggest dune of the Canary Islands, whereas in the south you can enjoy a stunning volcanic landscape.

Hike Montana de Tindaya

This sacred mountain is renowned for its natural, geological and historic significance. Still known as "The Mountain of Witches", the mountain is associated with the times of myth and magic - there are 213 engravings from prehistoric times dotted around the hillsides. On clear days, hikers may catch a glimpse of Tenerife and Gran Canaria from the summit of the mountain. The hike is suitable for all experience levels.

NOTE: This mountain is a protected area for several species of birds, and hikers must seek a permit from consejería de medio ambiente del cabildo before setting foot on the mountain.

DINING

LauraVI/Shutterstock.com

Unsurprisingly, fish is predominant in most of the island's restaurants, especially those on the coast, with swordfish, sea bass, octopus, and limpets as some of the more favoured delicacies. Inland, the ingredients favour more pastoral palettes with goat, rabbit, gofio (roasted corn meal), and the famous Maxorata cheese on the menu. Most main dishes are served with the ubiquitous accompaniments of fiery red mojo sauce and 'wrinkled potatoes' (papas arrugadas).

Nestor's Restaurant & Steakhouse

Nestor's Restaurant & Steakhouse (also known as Bahía de Cata) is a friendly, all-you-can-eat barbecue at the weekend, with a good variety of

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

santypan/Shutterstock.com

Fuerteventura is nowhere near Tenerife when it comes to clubbing, but instead the island has a chilled-out vibe with a smattering of heavy decibel clubs. Since this is a water sports Mecca, most of the ocean side bars lure the surf set with large screen video footage of rolling waves and board acrobatics.

Rock Island Bar

This is a popular and trendy bar with nightly performances by the best live performers in Fuerteventura and the rest of the Canary Islands. Rock Island Bar offers a cosy and intimate vibe where to enjoy an extra cold Guinness while having fun in the midst of an animated crowd.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Brigida Soriano/Shutterstock.com

Passport / Visa

Spain can be visited visa-free for up to 90 days by citizens of Australia, New Zealand, Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Malaysia, Israel, UAE and most countries in America. If you are unsure whether or not you need to apply for a visa, we recommend contacting the embassy or consulate in your country. International (non-Schengen) travelers need a passport that is valid for at least 3 months after the end of their intended trip in order to enter the Schengen zone. Citizens of Schengen countries can travel without a passport, but must have a valid ID with them during their stay.

Best Time to Visit

Located very close to the African continent, Fuerteventura boasts a unique climate, with temperatures which rarely go below 25 degrees. If you are a heat lover, than the best months to visit this island are July and September, when you can enjoy sunbathing and swimming on the beautiful beaches of Fuerteventura. If you prefer temperatures to be cooler, come between April and June and take advantage of the fresh wind.

Fuerteventura Airport

Fuerteventura Airport (FUE) is situated mid-way up the island's east coast, 3 kilometres from Puerto del Rosario and 35 kilometres from Corralejo.

There are three airport bus routes. Line 3 serves Puerto del Rosario and the tourist areas of Caleta del Fuste and Las Salinas. The bus leaves every 30 minutes. The other routes run to Puerto del Rosario, Morro Jable and Gran Tarajal.

Taxis are also available outside the arrivals hall. Alternatively, you can rent a car at one of the on-site offices.

Public Transport

Fuerteventura has a good local bus network serving most parts of the island (except parts of the southwest coast). For more flexibility it is better to hire a car, as the road network is generally very good. If you are more active, mountain bikes can also be hired.

Taxi

Taxis in Fuerteventura are generally cheap and in good condition. If you have to move to near places, than taking a taxi is the best choice, but don't forget that Fuerteventura is an island and it won't be so cheap to move from one side of the island to another!
