Lanzarote has it all: sunny skies, pristine beaches and crystal-clear waters. But its natural wonders go beyond the obvious. With over 300 volcanic peaks, the island boasts a lunar landscape with shades of pink, purple and ochre. Hidden beneath the surface lie caves, tunnels and lakes, begging to be explored. Surf enthusiasts will find a paradise here, with perfect waves throughout the year. Rumour has it that Lanzarote was once part of the lost city of Atlantis. Come discover this unique gem of Spain's Canary Islands.

THE ISLAND

Mihai-Bogdan Lazar / Shutterstock.com

Lanzarote's African influence is evident, but it was a European — Lancelotto Malocello from Genoa — who "discovered" the island in the 14th century. The island's 795 square kilometres showcase a lava-formed landscape, displaying the Canary Islands' most stunning palette, making Lanzarote an ideal destination for both active and relaxing holidays. And let's not forget the local specialities, where Spanish and African cuisine blend seamlessly to create delicious and unique dishes.

On the island, you can opt to unwind in tranquil resorts or seek adventure in Lanzarote's breathtaking natural landscapes. Attractions such as the Atlántida lava tunnel, Cueva de los Verdes, and Jameos del Agua offer fascinating expeditions deep into the Earth. Prepare to be enchanted by the charm of this remarkable island.

DO & SEE

canadastock / Shutterstock.com

Lanzarote offers a splendid mix of nature and culture, inviting visitors to soak up the sun or embark on a thrilling mountain climb. Delve into the UNESCO-listed Timanfaya National Park, pay a visit to the home of esteemed architect César Manrique, ride the perfect wave on your surfboard, or simply relax on the island's picturesque beaches. With its diverse attractions, Lanzarote truly has something for everyone.

Timanfaya National Park

Often referred to as Montañas del Fuego (Fire Mountains), this area showcases a fascinating array of geological phenomena and is home to a unique endemic flora, thriving in the high subterranean temperatures. Timanfaya serves as a living laboratory for biological research and stands out as one of Europe's most extraordinary natural habitats. In recognition of its distinctiveness, UNESCO designated the Timanfaya volcanic field as a national park in 1993.

César Manrique Foundation – Volcano House in Tahíche

Art and nature intertwine in the spectacular setting of the Volcano House, managed by the César Manrique Foundation.

Built into an old lava flow, this former home of renowned artist César Manrique offers a unique insight into his life and creative vision.

The upper storey of this 3,000 square metre building showcases traditional Lanzarote architecture, while the lower storey is ingeniously built around five natural volcanic bubbles connected by tunnels. Marvel at the swimming pool, ballroom, and barbeque area, all surrounded by abundant plant life and striking basalt.

The foundation houses an array of Spanish paintings and exhibition pieces, alongside fascinating photos, magazine articles, and audio clips that shed light on Manrique's life and artistic philosophy. Embrace the awe-inspiring blend of nature and creativity, and leave inspired by the harmony achieved in this remarkable volcanic abode.

BEACH LIFE

Pawel Kazmierczak / Shutterstock.com

Lanzarote is home to over a 100 stunning beaches, but be aware that the sea can be wild. A red flag on the beach means swimming is prohibited; yellow flags indicate swimming is at your own risk; and a green flag signals you're good to go! The best beaches are typically found at the southern end of the island — in the Papagayo area — while the rest of the coastline offers less crowded seaside spots.

Playa de Papagayo

Discover the beauty of Playa de Papagayo, a contender for Spain's most beautiful beach, tucked away at the southern end of Lanzarote. This stunning bay features a small island off its shores and a mountain of fine white sand, creating an idyllic setting for a day at the beach. It is well worth the 10-minute off-road drive, offering a serene atmosphere with ample space to lay down a towel and relax. The beach is a fantastic spot for snorkelling, where you can encounter an array of marine life, including fish, sea stars and sea cucumbers, all within a short distance from the shore.

Address: Calle Punta de Papagayo, Yaiza

Playa Blanca

Experience the charm of Playa Blanca, a beach known for its pristine white sand and the authentic fishing village atmosphere that shares its name. This picturesque location is perfect for families and water sports enthusiasts alike, offering plenty of activities to enjoy.

The village of Playa Blanca provides a genuine glimpse into local life, and from here, you can easily take ferries to Fuerteventura and other islands in the archipelago, making it an ideal base for island-hopping adventures.

Costa Teguisse

Costa Teguisse is the part of the island most dedicated to active holidays. In fact, you will find hundreds of surfers at Las Cucharas beach, and scuba divers at Punta del Tope. Beginners needn't worry — there are plenty of schools and instructors at your disposal.

Beaches of La Graciosa Island

Discover the tranquility of La Graciosa Island, the largest island in the Chinijo Archipelago, situated just north of Lanzarote. This small volcanic island offers a variety of beaches, most of which are adorned with unique volcanic sand, providing a picturesque setting for relaxation and exploration. Accessible by a short 20-minute boat ride from Lanzarote, La Graciosa is a must-see destination for those seeking a peaceful retreat in the Canary Islands.

With its unpaved roads, secluded sandy beaches, isolated mountains, and bike paths, La Graciosa is the perfect escape from the hustle and bustle of daily life. Visitors have fallen in love with the island's stunning coastlines, wild nature, and breathtaking views. Immerse yourself in the island's beauty by biking or hiking around, and consider camping under the stars for a truly memorable experience.

Address: Avenida Playa Honda 149, Playa Honda

Playa de la Concha

Nestled between Arrecife and the airport, Playa de la Concha is a beautiful golden sand beach that offers a serene and less crowded atmosphere.

Even though it's not among the largest beaches on the island, its charm and tranquility draw numerous locals in search of a peaceful getaway. Perfect for morning sports, easy walks, or simply watching the sunrise, Playa del Cable is a refreshing escape from Lanzarote's bustling tourist areas.

In addition to its natural beauty, Playa del Cable is located near a lovely walkway that leads to funky bars and restaurants along Honda Beach.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

ruineves/pixabay.com

The heart of Lanzarote's nightlife is in Puerto del Carmen and Costa Teguise, where young and lively crowds fill the numerous bars and cocktail lounges. Canary Islanders dine late, so the island's nightlife kicks off quite late and keeps going well into the early hours.

Be mindful: "discotecas" refers to clubs, while "nightclub" typically means strip clubs.

Cervecería San Miguel

This is one of the liveliest pubs in Puerto del Carmen, specialising in beer. You can choose from among a wide range of brands from all around the world. But you can also enjoy cocktails, drinks and alcohol-free beverages in the bar's cosy surroundings with music.

SHOPPING

Pexels / Pixabay.com

Although Lanzarote is no longer a tax-free zone, you'll still find low prices on items like alcohol, perfume, Cuban cigars and cigarettes. For a unique island souvenir, consider purchasing local lacework, baskets or pottery crafted by the indigenous Guanche people.

Shops can be found in all the main resorts. In Arrecife, most shops are concentrated on Calle Leon y Castillo. Puerto del Carmen features the Biosfera Shopping Centre (home to clothing shops like Zara), while Playa Honda offers a variety of shops, cosy cafes, and a cinema in the Deiland Centre.

Teguisse Market

Every Sunday morning, the quiet streets of Lanzarote's old capital, Teguisse, come alive with the bustling energy of the island's most important market. As the heart of Canarian culture, the Teguisse market offers an incredible variety of artisan crafts — from ceramics and basketry to leather goods. Alongside these traditional items, you'll also find an array of natural and local products, such as cheeses, wines, and cactus and aloe-based goods. The market has become a hub for artists to sell their eclectic works, making it a must-visit event for anyone exploring Lanzarote. Not only is it a great place to pick up unique souvenirs, but it's also where the locals go to do their weekly shopping, ensuring fresh and authentic flavours throughout.

César Manrique-Lanzarote Airport (ACE)

César Manrique-Lanzarote Airport, also known as Lanzarote Airport and Arrecife Airport, is the airport serving the island of Lanzarote in the Canary Islands.

The local bus (line 22) stops right outside the Arrivals Hall, and the journey to Arrecife takes around 15 minutes. It runs from 6:55 am to 10:40 pm Monday to Friday, every 25 minutes.

Taxis and car rental companies, like Avis and Europcar, are represented at the airport. It is strongly suggested to avoid taxis from points other than the official taxi rank.

At the moment, there aren't Uber or any rideshare services available at Lanzarote Airport.

Passport / Visa

Spain can be visited visa-free for up to 90 days by citizens of Australia, New Zealand, Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Malaysia, Israel, UAE and most countries in America. If you are unsure whether or not you need to apply for a visa, we recommend contacting the embassy or consulate in your country. International (non-Schengen) travellers need a passport that is valid for at least 3 months after the end of their intended trip in order to enter the Schengen zone. Citizens of Schengen countries can travel without a passport, but must have a valid ID with them during their stay.

Best Time to Visit Lanzarote

Lanzarote is a fantastic year-round destination, boasting mild winters and pleasantly warm summers, with temperatures rarely exceeding 30°C. To dodge the tourist crowds and enjoy a more tranquil experience, consider planning your visit during the shoulder months of April-May or September-October.

Public Transport

Travelling around Lanzarote is a breeze, as distances across the island aren't extensive, and local buses make getting about quite convenient. The majority of attractions are accessible via public transport, with all resorts connecting through Arrecife. For details on prices, routes, discounts and passes, head over to their website to make the most of your island adventure.

Internet: arrecifebus.com

Taxi

You'll find an abundance of taxis in the major tourist resorts, but keep in mind that public transport is efficient and often considerably more affordable. Renting a car is also a viable option for exploring the island.

It's highly recommended to use only official taxis, which are easily recognisable by their white and red colours. Taxi ranks are typically situated near the city's central station, ensuring you always have access to a ride.

Bear in mind that each part of the island has its own dedicated taxi company.
