

Växjö

in collaboration with Växjö kommun

Växjö is the very heart of southeast Sweden - in the middle of Småland, in the middle of southern Sweden.

There is a lot to see, experience and do here - unique shops and world-class restaurants. A thriving culture and art programme, an intimate café culture and several award-winning culinary eating-houses. If you would like to experience genuine Småland nature, take one of the many cycle and footpaths straight out into the forests! A kingdom of crystal is just around the corner, as is the kingdom of furniture. Welcome!

THE CITY

Anders Bergön

Perhaps it is the “small metropolis” feeling, rich in contrasts, that makes so many people feel at home in Växjö. Multicultural, youthful and do ahead. Growing so that it strains at the seams. Despite a high tempo, there is also time for calm and reflection. It’s the contrasts that define the town of Växjö. On the one hand, lively pulse, shopping and entertainment and on the other, charming alleyways, cobblestones and red cottages. There is something to do for both big and small here - from a cathedral with roots in the 12th century to a modern skatepark in the middle of town, from Sweden’s best wine cellar to peaceful fishing trips only a stone’s throw from the main street.

Växjö Cathedral

Växjö cathedral is one of Småland’s most visited places. The church is from the 12th century. The cathedral is located close to the shore of Lake Växjö. The imposing twin steeples can be seen over virtually the whole town. The cathedral, large and light, is full of Småland studio art glass and a wander around the building takes us through several of the bible's narratives. The triptych altar screen, sculptured by world-famous glass artist Bertil Vallien, forms the tree of life: from death to life.

Teleborgs Castle

Here you will meet a living castle and castle-life. The hotel business cares about the castle's history and it has been carefully renovated.

Teleborg's castle offers hotel and guesthouses. The castle has different common areas and meeting rooms; each and every one with it's on history, suitable for groups of eight up to hundred people. The castle also houses a restaurant where you can dine with a view over the garden.

Teleborgs castle was a wedding gift from the wealthy and slightly eccentric count Fredrik Bonde af Björnö, to his young wife Anna Koskull. The exterior of the castle today is virtually unchanged and is surrounded by the castle garden.

National park Åsnen

Åsnen was made a national park in March 2018, which means that the nature in the surroundings is unique and of international interest. The national park is about 1,868 hectares large, and 75% of the area is water.

The main entrance is situated by the bridge Sunnabron near the narrow that leads to the largest island in Åsnen, Sirkön. Hiking paths leads to Bjurkärr. Bjurkärr has one of Sweden's most valuable broad-leaved deciduous forests, since it is very rich in species. The bird life is rich and you can find unusual insects, moss and lichen here.

The other entrance to the national park is situated by the left shore of Åsnen and near the mountain Trollberget. Here you can find leaflets about the national park and also both broad-leaved deciduous trees and conifer trees such as pine and fir trees. Additionally, there is a shore by the lake and wetland forest, all in the same small area.

Some places in the national park have toilets, fire places and resting places. Some have paths marked with different colours and a wooden deck near the lake where you can unpack your basket with Swedish fika and just enjoy the view of Åsnen, with all its lakes and water.

DO & SEE

Lina Alriksson

It is easy to discover Växjö. We often say that you can reach everything within 15 minutes. You are close to everything, for example the Linneaus garden, Sweden's Glass Museum, the Swedish Emigrant Institution, and you can easily walk between the city's different sights. On your walk you will almost certainly do some shopping and rest your feet at one of Växjö's many cafés and restaurants. Or just take a pause on one of the benches beside Lake Växjö.

DINING

Alexander Hall

Växjö's many restaurants offer food from all corners of the world. The surrounding lakes, forests and meadows are a huge stockpile for all those who appreciate Småland gastronomy. Some of the restaurants are so good that their trophy cabinets are full of honours from the White Guide and other prominent restaurant guides. But Växjö is also a coffee break town where you are never far away from a classic patisserie. The oldest patisserie was founded in 1876 and is still run today by descendants of the founder, Johan Broqvist. Sweden's biggest food market is arranged annually in Växjö and the city has been awarded the distinction of being the Gastronomic Capital of the Year, by the Swedish government.

Umami Monkey

A real hamburger joint in central Växjö. Umami Monkey offers tastes from the whole world, packaged in the form of hamburgers and side dishes. Umami Monkey takes ingredients that have a high concentration of umami and makes a fusion out of these. The inspiration comes from Marc O' Polo's travels with everything from parmesan to soy as flavoring. Umami Monkey maps many of the world's corners taste wise - China, Mexico, the French colonies, Europe - fusion, quite simply. The idea is that the street is supposed to be the world's food.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Mats Samuelsson

Public transportation

Public transport in Växjö is bus. Most buses depart from, or pass, the travel center (“resecentrum”).

There is also a customer center connected to the travel center. For a number of years, city buses will not pass or stay at the travel center due to the rebuilding and development of the area. City buses will instead depart from Kronobergsgatan in Växjö.

TICKETS

You can buy a ticket in the following ways:

- On the bus (by credit or cash. If paying by cash, an additional fee will be charged).
- Mobile ticket through the app “Länstrafiken Kronoberg”. Available in App Store and Google Play.
- Travel cards (available as discount cards and periodic cards). You can buy the travel card on board the bus, at Länstrafikens customer center or other sales outlets.

VISITOR TICKETS

There is also a visitor ticket that suits you as a tourist or temporary visitor, who wants to do several bus or train journeys during your stay.

The visitors ticket is valid in Växjö city traffic and for the whole county during 24 or 72 hours.

Visitor tickets for Växjö city traffic is available on board the bus, at the customer center located in Växjö travel center and at other sales outlets.

You can buy a visitor ticket for the whole county at the ticket machines at the train stations.

GOOD TO KNOW

- If there is space, you can bring a regular two-wheeled bike by train and in the regional traffic.
- Bike is not allowed on the city buses.
- You can bring a stroller without charge if there is space on the bus. The driver decides if there is room.
- You are not allowed to drink alcohol on buses, trains, in waiting rooms or weather shelters.
